RESPECT LIFE MINISTRY

Human Nature and the Image of God

“...The memory of God has already faded for many people. New generations are growing up without any religion. We are fast becoming a society of ‘practical atheists.’ When we forget our Creator, we forget what creation means. We lose the sense of our own meaning as his creatures. That’s what’s happening in our society. If God is not our Father, then we are not brothers and sisters and we have no responsibility for one another.

But the loss of God has even more personal implications for our sense of life’s ‘meaning.’ When we lose our sense of God, we lose the ‘thread’ that holds our lives together. We lose the answers to the questions that help us make sense of the world: What kind of person should I be? Why should I be good? What should I believe in? What should I be living for – and why? Many of the elites in our culture today would argue that there are no true answers to these questions – just different opinions, beliefs and preferences. But we know that’s not true. We know people need those answers. Without those answers we don’t know anymore what makes a human being human.

In his first encyclical, Lumen Fidei, Pope Francis writes about this in almost poetic language. He writes: ‘Once man has lost the fundamental orientation which unifies his existence, he breaks down into the multiplicity of his desires...his life-story disintegrates into a myriad of unconnected instants...an aimless passing from one lord to another...a plethora of paths leading nowhere and forming a vast labyrinth.’ This is where we are in our culture. We have ‘disintegrated’ the idea of the human person and reduced it to whatever we wish it to be. And this cultural situation suggests a mission for the Church and individual Christians.”
